“ I will never forget Tony. He was one of a kind. When I first met him, I won't lie, he was intimidating to me. Loud, Italian man. He was so bossy. However, as I came to know him I could see that the loud, bossy, stubborn man was also a loving husband, a loving father, and a true gentleman. He always would ask about my daughter and never hesitated to try to make me comfortable in his home while I was there to make his life easier. We would watch the news together at times and he would yell at the tv, only for Phyllis to tell him to be quiet while I smiled because we were always 100% in agreement. I was so saddened to hear of his sudden passing. My heart is with his family, especially Phyllis, Maria and Tina.
