“ I am just now learning of the home going of my friend, Donna. For many years we raised our children together, attended the same church, made Halloween costumes for our kids together. I still use several of her recipes in her own writing to this very day. She taught me how to make molded chocolates. And the best cut out sugar cookies ever. Even though as life situations would have it, and we lost touch, I will always remember and hold Close to my heart, the fun, simple times we shared as good friends.
