“ My heart is going out to Dylans parent right now. I cannot express what an awesome friend Dylan was to my daughter. From the time that I was able to meet with him, he was funny, light hearted, I could see that he had a brilliant mind. He now able to rest, smile daily and watch over you both. My prayers for you will continue.Dylan, now you have the chance to be who it is you really would like to be. Keep being creative and loving everyone around you! You will continue to touch lives. May you now have restfull happines and peace all around you forever!Kelley Hannah's mom

“ I only knew you through my son, Michael. But Michael thought the world of you, you were such a big part of his life and the person he is becoming! I know you were there for him when he needed a friend, I only wish you would have let him do the same for you! Words cannot express the loss we all feel, especially your friends, but know that they loved you! RIP Dylan.....keep looking out for them

“ I don't even know where to start....you were like another son to me! Some may or may not know you saved my Dylan when he fell into the waterfall and was sucked in the under current. You were such the little shit.....you made a friend out of everyone. I can't fathom you being gone. There is so much I can say however I know you and I will have some private conversations in the future. keep watch over your friends, you not being here has hurt them beyond words! No more worries, no more hardship...make the most out of heaven, keeping it real as only you could. I love you my other child and I hope you are at peace!
