“ My condolences and heartbroken 💔 sadness to Libbys family, Shawn, and Brenda. If I were capable of taking everyone's heartache and sorrow away, I would bare all of it myself, but that would be too selfish of me. When we lose a loved one, we need to be able to feel every bit of our emotions. Without these emotions and heartaches, we wouldn't know exactly what Love is, or how to relate, respect and help others through their times of need ❤️. With that being said, it brings me to some unforgettable memories with Libby; back in the days when we were all teens and very young adults, I was going through some issues about my childhood. I didn't know to handle my emotions about or get through those issues. Libby could see right through me, the mask that I wore when I smiled or tried to enjoy the fun times, and all the loving company around. One day she asked me why I was so sad and angry inside. I was amazed over this, my family and friends I don't believe even noticed. Libby, I believe, is an empathetic angel here on earth. She was able to see and feel what I was going through. Libby knew just what to say to make me feel different, she taught me how to enjoy what precious times and people I have around me, this happened while we were camping. I miss those days camping, swimming and rafting. So many happy memories and lessons in life, good ones. Libby I love and miss you so much. I have great respect for you and the friendship that we built. Now you're an angel in Heaven. I will keep you alive inside of my heart with memories.
