“ Hi Honey --- It is now 7 weeks since you left me. I can't begin to tell you how much I miss you. there is always so much to share with you. The phone calls, the stories the humor or sadness. There is no one anymore. That is the hardest. I came home tonight Eric was sleeping and Amanda not home. So lonely. I can remember longing for quiet, but no more. The tears come at any given time, like now. Been through so many ceremonies. The All Souls mass was unbelievable, and the Crown Hill ceremony last week was very nice. The candle was to stay lite for 36 hours. Finishing the thank you notes, but that's because I know you wouldn't be happy with me taking this long. I just can't finish them all at once. Thanksgiving was terrible. Good meal the kind you liked no different, but just the three of us and John Sims and then to the cemetery with Amanda and John. Very difficult for both of us. Please watch over Eric. Give me some signs I need to know you are here. Love forever.

“ Diana and family,

I am sorry sorry to hear about your loss. Words cannot express my sorrow. Gary was such a great man. I am still in disbelief in his passing. His smile and laugh will be greatly missed. It seems like yesterday he was coaching me in softball. Words cannot express the impact he had on me.

You and your family are in my thoughts and prayers.
