“ Josh chose to walk a different path than most,he did what he felt was right for him, on his paths were many puddles along the way temptations to great not to jump into them,as our paths crossed with him he was grinning ear to ear telling us how much fun he had, i can only hope to cross paths withhim again tell him how right he was with the puddles before him give him a hug and tell himhow loved he was,you can bet the next puddle i see I'll jump in it thinking of josh ! Love you always

“ I am so heartbroken to hear of this tragedy. My heart goes out to the friends and family of Josh. I pray for peace and love to cover this family. May God bless all those who knew and loved him.

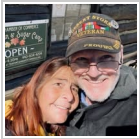

Isaiah 40:29-31

29 He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak. 30 Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall; 31 but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint.

“ I am so upset to hear about what happen to you Josh. I'm going to miss him so much, all 6 of us have always had so many good memories hanging out with each other since we were little.

Going to grandmas for the summer and swimming, shopping and spending most of our time down in the basment playing games as well as taking the little red wagon down the hill.

To family get togethers when we were little swimming in your pool and all of us hanging out down stairs while the adults had adult time up stairs haha. I wish we were able to have more time together as we got older but I'm sure we will see each other again soon, we love you all so much.
