“ I was always happy to share time with Danny and Lydia when I came to my dock.
Most wonderful people that I have spent time with. Always pleasant, and happy and comfortable moments. Danny would have one beer with me. The jolly man.
Lydia always sweet and giving food or just bakeries. She was kind thoughtful and respectful. I loved playing Polkas for her Franky Yankovich CD's we were friends and companions.
Now many times I say to Danny you were the old folks now you left me to take your place. I miss you and will meet again. I am sure they need a Cake lady in Heaven.
Dear Lydia I will miss the breakfasts and all the wonderful moments we shared.
Since I am still around I think of you great folks all the time.
THANK YOU FOR BEING THERE WITH ME AND ALL THE OTHER FRIENDS.
YOUR FRIEND FOREVER

“ Lydia was always known for her laugh, her kindness, her concern for her friends and family and her delicious treats that she called "Nummers" . She would call us over to her dock and say, " Come one over. I have nummers." Gathering and talking at her boat dock was something that everyone that knew her has done many times. It was where you would go when you wanted to laugh, to cry, to share stories, to drink, to gab, to laugh, to get advice or to snack. We would chat on the telephone regularly to share news about ourselves, family, friends or people in her life. She knew everything about everyone and always shared and showed true emotion and concern. If you sat right next to her, she had the tendency to hit your arm every time she thought of something new she wanted to share with you to make sure you were paying attention. She was a kind soul and a great friend and someone that will be truly missed. RIP Lydia. Diane and Les Jones

I just heard about this, as I have been on vacation. I'm so sorry. Lydia was a great lady & we had many laughs together. She use to call Bill "Marty" & it always made us laugh! She would call me after Bill died, just to see how I was doing & we talked a lot. I loved going to their dock, eating & drinking & just having fun! She will be missed a lot. But, now she is with Danny & happy once again! "Party" Martie Simmons
