“ Ma - It is not you who will miss us but it is us who will miss you. You will still be with us forever but I will miss you forever. You are a very special person. I was so lucky the day you came into my life but I did not know how much more lucky I would be as the days went by.
You were generous to a fault, you were loving, kind, and sympathetic. You touched the hearts of so many and were loved by so many. When you were sad I felt your pain and when I was sad you felt my pain. Amazing. You were a good mother to your children and you had the best of times with them. I am sure they will cherish their memories - I know that I will. I am not going to think of this as goodbye but just "see ya later". I am so fortunate to have been your daughter-in-law and it was my privilege to have had your companionship. I love you, Ma, and will miss you so I'll just see ya later.
