“ Dad

Hard to believe it's been 5 years. I think about you every day. Miss so much of you and our family. I moved back to Denver. I still remember when you guys drove to help me move. Tom and Jean in the back and you and Mom in the front. The memories of our past keep me always smiling. Today was Ash Wednesday. I know your looking down on all of us and until we meet again. I miss you 🙏😭

“ Hey grampy, I never get on these things but I'm missing you more and more lately, I have a son now his name is majior, I'm so happy he gets to share the same birthday as someone as special as you. You would love him so much I'm always buying him fire trucks. Things been hard since you been gone. Nothings the same anymore, it's kind of sad actually. I always wish things could be different but I guess that can't always be the case. I remember you always telling me you pray for me my dad and grandma every night when we talked on the phone. I wish I can get another day with you and have one of our talks or go get a happy meal and go sit by the lake, go watch jimmy play baseball, go shopping, go run errands for grandma, I cherish these memories so much. I love you so much grandpa. Keep watching over me and jimmy and Amanda. Your missed more then you know.

“ Dad

Today was such a tribute to a life well lived. All of your fellow firefighting brothers, students, family and life long friends showed up to pay their respects. It was an honor to be part of it. I'm still trying to get used to the thought I won't be able to call you but you will be in my prayers every day. You would be so proud of everyone, the boys were on their best behavior, Tommy only tried one trick and nothing got broken!!! Jake watched over you and made sure things were ok at all times. Krista and Jean looked so pretty and were gracious hosts. You would have been so proud of Mike and Tom, who continue to do an incredible job of handling anything and everything that needs to be taken care of and they handle it with the calmness and grace they learned from you. I'm lucky to have such a great family that comes together at these times and I'm so thankful to be a part of it. I miss you so much.

Love

“ Bobby, Tom, Lynn, Jean, John, Mike and all the grandkids - I know you will miss your Dad and Grandpa but you know he is happy to be with your Mom and Jimmy and not suffering anymore. Remember all the good times and that he is still in your hearts forever. I will always remember the good times we all had together and think of your Dad every time there is a really good thunderstorm on the lake. He special ordered storms when he came to stay at my house. Love to you all at this difficult time. Donna
